On Wednesday Mr. A. Asher, of Augusto, Ga., went to the clerk of the Hustings Court to secure a license to marry Miss Asie Straus, of Lancaster, Pa. He said his lady-love was of legal age, but the Clerk informed him that he could not issue licenses to non-residents. Mr. Asher thought a moment and replied that Miss Straus was not now living in Pennsylvania but was in Richmond, and did not intend to return to the Kevstone State. He was told that if he should bring an affidavit to the effect that the lady he proposed to marry was of legal age and a resident of Richmond the necessary papers to make her his wife would be issued.

Crutchfield decided to send Taylor on the grand jury.

Justice Crutchfield fixed the penalty at $50, where upon Botto stated that the bar-room was not run by himself, but by his wife, who obtained the license for it recently. Upon this statement Justice Crutchfield decided not to fine Botto, but issued a summons for his wife and fined her. He made no reduction in the amount of the fine, as Botto attended to the bar. Mrs. Botto will take an appeal.

Sheriff Southward Has a New Theory in the Murder Case.

Although Thornton Adams, the farmhand of Mr. Jacob Feitig, has been sent on to the grand jury for the murder of "Mox" Rossdeitcher, the mysterv concerning the voung peddler's death is by no means cleared up. It is very generally acknowledged that there is not sufficient evidence to convict Adams, however guilty he may appear.

In conversation with a Dispatch reporter yesterday Sheriff Southward said that he now had reason to believe that the killing of "Mox" was a cold-blooded, premeditated murder. He has commenced working on the case again, and seems confident that he will shortly bring the guilty parties to justice. The Sheriff declined to explain his plans for the present, but said he felt certain that there was a woman in the

Mrs. William H. It was pleasant to witness their bright and cheerful faces, and the perfect freedom which all seemed to enjoy. They returned home tired but very, very happy. Mrs. Pleasants had to leave before the day was over, in response to a telegram to visit a very sick friend in Petersburg.

OF PETERSBURG, DISCUSSED HERE.

the matter was quite freely discussed in

A negro was brought before the Mayor on the charge of drunkenness. When arrested he resisted the officers and struck at one of them, but was finally forced into obedience. The Mayor discharged him on the ground that the officers making the arrest did not make known their authority by stating the fact that they were police officers and duly qualified to make arrests for violations of law; that though they had on their uniforms and had their police badges displayed, this was not sufficient to justify an arrest without a warrant, and that it is necessary, in fact, to declare their authority by announcing themselves officers of the law.

AN EX-JUSTICE'S OPINION.

atthority by announcing themselves omecers of the law.

AN EX-USHICE'S OPINION.

Perhaps the manin Richmond best qualified to speak on a question of this character is Mr. D. C. Richardson, who for a number of years presided over the Police Court. He was seen yesterday by a Dispatch reporter and asked what he thought of Mayor Collier's decision.

"The question in such a case," he replied, "for the court or jury to determine is whether the accused knew or had good reason to believe that the person making the arrest was an officer of the law and acting as such in the discharge of his duty. Knowledge on the part of the accused is of necessity inferential; there cannot be positive or direct evidence as to what a person knows. The officer may announce his office and purpose, but it does not necessarily follow that the person whom he was seeking to arrest would know that he was an officer. The circumstances of the case may show that he did not hear. Even in such a case the fact that he did know of the officer's authority must be inferred from the circumstances.

Mayor Ellyson is a great believer in upholding the police and giving them as broad latitude as is safe. "I should hope." said he, "that the newspapers have not reported Mayor Collier correctly. I have a very high regard for him and think he is a very level-headed man. I don't see the necessity of uniforming officers and placing badges on them if they must tell everybody whom it is their duty to arrest who they are. What would be the significance of their uniforms and badges, which are marks of authority? There is no question in my authority? There is no question in my mind that it is the right of an officer in uniform to arrest a person who has violated the law or is doing so without making any declaration to the effect that he has that authority vested in him."

THE JUSTICE. Justice Crutchfield was not at the Police Court when the Dispatch reporter called there in the afternoon to obtain an expression from him, but his rulings since he ascended the bench more than two years ago have shown that his ideas are very different from those of Petersburg's Mayor. Like his predecessor, Justice Crutchfield has always been prompt to punish all persons resisting police-officers, and time and again he has declared from the bench his determination to uphold the officers. His fines have been heavy, and he has always been immovable on this point. In Richmond the blue coat and brass buttons declare the officers' authority.

FIVE SHOTS WITHOUT EFFECT. Young Junius Cohen Aims at His Fathe

But Misses Him.

Last night about 10% clock five pistolshots rang out clear and loud near the corner of Seventeenth and Grace streets.

A large crowd of persons soon gathered in the vicinity, and it was ascertained that the shooting was done in the store of Mr. Alexander Cohen, on Grace street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth.

Junius Cohen, a young man about twenty years of age, while under the influence of liquor, had some words with his father and drew a pistol from his pocket and fired at him. The father was much excited, and ran around in the room, which is quite small, and at last out in the street. Five shots were fired, but none of them took effect, but the locked his father out.

Young Cohen then locked his father out, put out the lights, and went up-stairs.

Attempted to Blow Open the Safe.

Thieves made an unsuccessful attempt Thursday night to blow open the large iron safe in the warehouse of F. E. Patrick & Co., corner of Tenth and Canal streets. The only thing they obtained for their trouble was a Smith & Wesson revolver.

It is supposed that the thieves secreted themselves in the building before it was closed in the evening, as there were no evidences that the warehouse had been broken into. Mr. W. W. Moses, Superintendent of the Pentientiary, said yesterday that the report circulated about the city Thursday night that a convict who had attempted to escape had been shot by one of the guards and killed was without the slightest foundation. There had, he said, been no attempt made to escape.

THE SLATER CHILDREN SUIT. Further Proceedings in the Case-The Mother-in-Law Examined-A War

WILLIAMSBUEG, VA., September 5, 1890.
The County Court, after a recess yesterday, is in session again to-day, hearing the habeas corpus proceedings sued out by Charles Slater against his wife for the possession of three children. The leading evidence taken to-day was that of Mrs. Schenck, the mother of Mrs. Slater, who corroborated her daughter's statement as to the maitreatment she received at the hands of her husband. There are a number of witnesses to be examined, and it is probable that the court will last several days and run into the regular September term, which commences Monday. The number of spectators in attendance has considerably increased, and no little sympathy is expressed among them for the wife and children.

Superintendent Bissell and three or four minor officials testified in regard to the discharges that they had all been ordered by Vice-President Webb. They did not give the discharged men so good a character as workmen as they claimed for themselves. Some were dismissed for hemselves. Some were dismissed for hemselves. The other dismissed for insubordination and three because they neglected their work to serve on grievance committees. The other dismissals were for incompetency and neglect of duty.

This morning the company put a force of men at work clearing obstructions from the track and most of the stuff was removed, but as fast as the men proceeded stones, ties, and other obstructions were piled back on the rails by sympathizers with the strikers. The company applied for police protection and several officers went over the line with Mayor Seabright, but no good was accomplished in that way and the company asked for officers to ride on the cars to be started out. Some of the men said they would take their uniforms off first, and the Mayor advised President Sweeny to forego the attempt to run cars. This evening the tracks are obstructed at quite a number of places, but otherwise there is no evidence of trouble.

VICKSBURG, MISS., September 5.—The Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railroad Passenger Train No. 2, due here at midnight, but two hours late, was derailed on an embankment five miles south of here this morning at 2 o'clock and badly wrecked. Every car left the track but the sleepers were not overturned. All the others rolled down the bank, and the engine, tender, and baggage-car were wheels upward. No loss of life occurred, though the conductor, Gurley, the engineer, Cook, and two passengers are confined to their beds owing to severe bruises. The wreck was the result of deliberate malice, a rail having been loosened.

no loss of life or serious injuries resulted. The second section of the Montreal sleeper out of New York, due here at 11:30, consisting of an engine and eight sleeping-cars filled with men, women, and children, was derailed, but barring a shaking up of the passengers and the bruising of half a dozen or so nothing more serious than the wrecking of the train resulted.

The news of the wreck was brought here by Conductor McAuliffe and Mr. Max. LeClerc, correspondent of the Paris Journal, who walked all the way. A relief train was at once dispatched to the scene, carrying Superintendent Bissell, Chief-of-Police Willard, three physicians, and a representative of the Associated Press. Upon arriving at the scene of the wreck the first thought was of giving proper attention to the injured passengers. The escape of a large number from death was miraculous. the same size embraces so much natural beauty. Nothing could be more desirable for homes. One drive will convice you. THE WHOLE TRAIN DERAILED.

The train, which was twenty-five minutes behind time when it was wrecked, was running at the rate of thirty miles an hour. When the engine struck the obstruction on the track it was lifted upwards, and the whole train was thrown from the track. The forward part of the engine was suspended in the air, and it looked as though it might topple over into the ditch at any moment. The engineer and the fireman both stuck to their posts.

The first sleeping-car contained twenty-two passengers. It slid down the embankment and came to a stand-still on its side. None of the passengers in this car were injured except by being bruised. The second coach fared worse than any of the others, turning a complete somersault and landing in the ditch bottom, side up. In this car there was only one passenger, Mrs. Jenkins, of Brooklyn, the conductor, and the porter. Mrs. Jenkins was at first thought to be seriously injured, but it was afterwards found that she was more frightened than hurt. The third car was thrown directly across the ditch at right angles with the track and was at first taken for a bridge spanning the abyss. There were about eight passengers in this coach. There were about eight passengers in this coach, making in all about thirty-one passengers who were so fortunately saved from instant death. The other five sleeping-cars did not leave the road-bed but were lying obliquely across the north-bound track, while the fourth car was suspended as in air over the ditch, being held in place by its coupling and the resistance offered by the other three cars.

THE OBSTRUCTION WELL-FLACED.

ALBANY, N. Y., Septembor 5—Later.—Mrs.
Jenkins is the only one of the passengers needing medical attention. She received a severe blow on the head. A number of passengers were slightly cut by broken glass. Superintendent Bissell found a rail jammed into a cattle-guard and it was wedged with timbers and securely held by fish-plates, the whole arrangement being placed in a slanting position so as to lift the train clear off the track. The results showed that the judgment of the fiends who placed the obstruction on the track was unerring, and their purpose was successfully accomplished. A similar obstruction was placed on the south-bound track a little way above where the other obstruction was found.

The relief train reached here at 4:10 A. M., and all the passengers (sixty-three in number) were brought back. Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson, President.
